A better way to forget the colors.

- Every time the bomb's seconds display shows "00" a new color will be shown on the main screen. A tri-tone will also play to signify the change in color. Record the color that was shown for that minute.
- After more than 50% modules on the bomb are solved or 75% of the initial bomb time has passed (whichever comes first), the smaller screen will show a color. Input the amount of times that color has shown up on the big display. The < key will delete the previous input and the S key will submit what is currently inputted.
- If the amount of times the module has struck is a nonzero multiple of four, then you are able to press the < key to cycle through each color that showed up as long as the current input is zero.
